

BLAKE HAMMETTON

Speaking from the heart, challenging your mind...

After a life-altering car accident, heartbreak, triumphs, defeats, and a handful of pivotal moments that took him down some uncertain paths, Blake discovered the power of coaching and communication. He learned to explore the world through the eyes of someone truly curious about what's possible.

More importantly, he started devouring books, seminars, and every piece of material he could get his hands on that taught communication, team dynamics, personal power, and personal development. Then, coaching schools and hypnotherapy certifications.

Combining his expertise in communication and the power of personal development, with the seriousness with which we all view life, he knew he found home. Inviting others to come "try on a different lens and see the world differently" allowed him to show people a life they could have if they had the clarity on confidence to go out and get it.

And then one day he discovered that making audiences laugh while telling embarrassing stories, made them part of his journey to conquering fear, changing beliefs, and becoming his best self.

Today, Blake Hammerton brings excitement, engagement, and exercises to help audiences laugh, think, and explore the world outside their comfort zone. With stories of successes and hilarious failures, you'll laugh, learn, and lean into the process of becoming your best self.
